Record Year For National Banks

According to Comptroller of the Currency John Skelton Williams, the year just closed was the greatest in the history of the National banks which earned practically billions dollars gross, or $800,000,000 net, in 1919. Their resources now total almost $22,500,000,000, and in the fiscal year not a single failure occurred involving loss to any depositor. There are 7,548 national banks in the United States, Alaska, and Hawaii, under the supervision of the comptroller, and 30 fully-fledged banking branches and foreign companies and trust companies in the District of Columbia. Prosperity in the South is attested by the fact that in the last six months the increase in the "country" banks, or banks outside the reserve cities, in North Carolina alone is in excess of $30,000,000, or more than 30 per cent; and in Texas in the same time, $134,000,000, or 34 per cent. The national banks of the country have grown more in the last six years—say from August 31, 1913, to November 12, 1919—than they did in the entire fifty-year period from the inauguration of the national banking system in 1863, down to 1913, declares Mr. Williams, who sees in this record valuable testimony to the high efficiency and invaluable aid of the federal reserve system to the country's commerce, industry, agriculture and business of every kind.—Richmond Journal.

Memorial Service

At Liberty Baptist church, Sunday morning beautiful service tablet was unveiled in honor of the soldiers of that church and Sunday school who enlisted in the service of the World War. The tablet is another gift to the church from Mr. C. W. Hancock, one of the oldest deacons of the church.

The pastor, Mr. Eaton, conducted the service in which Worldview, how was the time spent at Camp Lee during our soldiers from Liberty and who enlisted in the service. Mr. Wade M. Burks invested the tablet and, after the veil was removed, gave an address. Mr. R. F. Burke was also called upon, and he spoke feelingly of the boys, and said he would always hold them and love them as dearly as he did them.

The speaker of the hour was Dr. G. B. Taylor, of Hollins. He was in good form and delivered an interesting address to a large congregation—using as a base for his remarks the 23rd chapter of Joshua. He spoke on the subject—Going For or Back. Yesterday, To-day and To-morrow. For or Back. Yesterday, the Present and the Future. His tribute to the boys was beautiful and full of high-minded devotion, the debt of love and gratitude the world owes them.

In closing he reminded them of the responsibility resting on and urged them to emulate their fathers of all and good ways.

University American Soldier.

The University of Virginia has announced by the Alumni Association that it will erect a memorial to the University men who died in the World War. After the Alumni Association had completed its plans for the memorial, Mr. Thomas Nelson Page, president of the Alumni Association, issued a statement in which he said that the memorial would be erected from funds received from the alumni and friends of the University. Mr. Page said that the memorial would be a building to be used by the University.

Enlist For Big Fight
Against Lawlessness
Your county chairman or organizer will ask you to do this.
Do not fail him. It is a great opportunity to do your bit toward the triumph of law and order.
Powerful interests threaten to make our Constitution a mere scrap of paper. It is not the American spirit. The Eighteenth Amendment, prohibiting traffic in ardent spirits, must be enforced. Let's see to it.
The world needs our help Misdoubters in foreign fields plead with us They say it is the greatest stumbling block to their success. We appeal to you to join with us in world evangelization.
World prohibition by 1920 is the first step in the attainment of this object.
For this purpose we ask the American people for the sum of $25,000,000.
Actual collection of funds January 16 23. It is the climax of appeals to your patriotism.

The Anti-Saloon League of America World Wide Prohibition and Law Enforcement Campaign.

A vast amount of work now remains to be done which the interests of war has temporarily delayed and accumulated, and the result is that we have very large regular traffic to make room for. We are doing all we can to maintain service due to the war, and to prepare the railroads to serve adequately the increased traffic throughout the country.
WALKER D. HINES,
Director General of Railroads.
Work more—
Produce more—
Save more—
But we can't continue increasing our production unless we continue increasing our railroad facilities.
The farms, mines and factories cannot increase their output beyond the capacity of the railroads to haul their products.
Railroads are now near the peak of their carrying capacity.
Without railroad expansion—more engines, more cars, more tracks, more terminals—there can be little increase in production.
But this country of ours is going to keep right on growing—and the railroads must grow with it.
To command in the investment markets the flow of new capital to expand railroad facilities—and so increase production—there must be public confidence in the future earning power of railroads.
The nation's business can grow only as fast as the railroads grow.
